Today is the last day for students to pre-register for the fall semester, 1962-63. Enrollment materials may be picked up in room 143, east check window, in the Administration Building.

Summer school registration may be handled by mail or June 7, 8 or 9 in the Registrar's office.

By Jack Turner

Omaha University graduates are distinguishing themselves all over the world. Two of them will literally be all over the free world during the next two years. They are Air Force Captains Paul Kauttu and Ron Catton.

Kauttu and Catton have been selected from jet fighter pilot applicants on a world-wide basis to fly with the USAF Air Demonstration Team, the "Thunderbirds." They will report to Nellis Air Force Base, Nevada, upon their graduation from OU in July.

"We can't think of a finer job in the Air Force," said Catton. Flying the North American F-100 Super Sabre, the Thunderbirds perform their mission as America's "good will ambassadors" over the free world.

Kauttu's home is Portland, Ore. Prior to entering OU he was stationed at Wright Patterson AFB, Ohio, as the Tactical Air Command Liaison Officer.

As the new Thunderbird "slot man" it will be Kauttu's responsibility to maintain symmetry in the "diamond" during the team's intricate maneuvers. His aircraft has a stainless steel tail specially constructed to withstand the heat blast of the leader.

Catton is stationed at Nellis AFB as an Academic-Flight instructor in the USAF Fighter Weapons Instructor School. He is assigned to fly as one of the two Solo Acrobatic Pilots.

According to Capt. Ron Everett, the Thunderbirds PR man, the dual-solo is a newly created part of the team designed to give the show added interest. One of the acrobatic skills, the "Calypso" involves one pilot flying ground level at 550 mph with the other pilot upside down with their wings fully overlapped. He said it takes daily practice for the best of fighter pilots to develop the split second timing necessary to perform these maneuvers.

Academic Honor Awarded Tuesday to Doctor Wardle

The first Occupant of the "Jeffers Chair of English Literature" was named at the President's Coffee Hour Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Ralph Wardle, professor and head of the English department, was selected.

The University will receive a $1,200 per year income from the Jeffers Trust Fund ($27,282.99), President Milo Bail said. The fund is at the Omaha National Bank.

In 1938 Dr. Wardle joined the Omaha University faculty. He received his bachelor's degree from Dartmouth in 1931; his masters and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard in 1934 and 1940. From 1940-44 he taught English at Cornell University and then returned to OU.

The Corinthian Society, the highest scholastic honorary on campus, was founded by Dr. Wardle in 1948.

Besides keeping busy with University activities he has found time to write three books — Mary Wollstonecraft, Oliver Goldsmith, A Primer for Readers, and numerous articles. He holds membership in several national and local organizations. He is a past president of American Association of University Professors; Nebraska Council of Teachers of English; and English Speaking Union.

Dr. Wardle speaks of writing as a means of expression. "Good English is not confined to the English Department. It is important in every subject. It goes beyond college; regardless of your job, you need to communicate with others."

He is a former chairman of the University's Honors committee, a member of OU's Liberal Arts curriculum committee and member of the graduate council.

He is a member of the Scholarships and Grants committee, and has appeared on OU's Alumni Association's Great Professors series. Dr. Wardle is also Chairman of the Board for the "Grain of Sand."

Tappings Set For Wed. Fete

The Annual All School Spring Sing will be Wednesday, May 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom. It will feature campus organization coral groups and the traditional "Tappings."

The choral groups will be divided into a men's and a women's division. Each group will sing two songs, one contest song, and one of their choice. The contest song for the men's groups this year is "Aura Lee." The one for the women is "Moon River."

A panel of judges will award a trophy to the outstanding group in each division.

After the coral groups have performed, OU's two senior honoraries, Waakiya for the women and Omicron Delta Kappa, for the men, will have their annual "tapping" or choosing of new members.

Students who are eligible for the honoraries must be a junior and have a certain amount of points for achievement in scholarship and campus activities.

Song group leaders for the entered Fraternities are: Lambda Chi Alpha, John Gaffney; Sigma Phi Epsilon, Bill Gust; Pi Kappa Alpha, Bill Wakefield; Theta Chi, Larry Hill, and Tau Kappa Epsilon, Dug Capner.

Sorority song group leaders are: Zeta Tau Alpha, Joyce Hunter and Judy Anderson; Alpha Zeta Delta, Sandra Staub; Sigma Kappa, Mary Alice Hurlbert; and Chi Omega, Gretel Schmad.

There is no admission charge and everyone is invited to attend.

Peter Hill Winner At KC Art Show

Art Instructor Peter Hill won the Ford Foundation award at the Mid-America Art Exhibition in Kansas City, Missouri last week.

Mr. Hill won the 450-dollar award with a painting titled "The Damned."

Senior John Koalblas and Peter Hill were the only persons at the Art-Exhibition from the Omaha area.

Mr. Hill said he plans to give the painting to Albion College at Albion, Michigan, where he was an under-graduate student.

Artists from eight states showed their works at the Mid-America Art Exhibition.

Tele-Lecture Lines 'Busy'

The tele-lecture technique will be applied many times within the next few weeks as tele-lectures are presented to and from the University of Omaha.

Monday, speaking from campus, Michel Beilis, conferences and program director, will address 25 administrators at University College, Syracuse, New York, via the tele-lecture. Mr. Beilis will describe the tele-lecture technique and discuss its advantages and disadvantages.

Two of Dr. William Jaynes classes, psychology 301 and 501, will hear the author of their textbook, Dr. Neil Miller of Yale, on May 16. The students in psychology 551a, instructed by Dr. Francis Hurst, have also invited the author of their text, Dr. Ernest Hilgard, to speak.

On May 17, Dr. Max Beberman, vice-chairman of the committee on school mathematics at the University of Illinois, will address Prof. Joseph Hanna's secondary education class. The class, primarily graduate students from school district 66, uses Dr. Beberman's materials.

For the Blue Cross and Blue Shield training program May 23-26, tele-lectures from Providence, Rhode Island, Louisiana State University, Stanford University, Penn State University and Chicago will take more than six hours to present.

At that time the Association will award 2 prizes and 4 scholarships for the coming school year. It will also, for the first time in 14 years, honor faculty members rather than distinguished OU alumni at the banquet.

The prizes to be awarded are the Frances M. Edwards and the William H. Thompson Psychology Grants. These grants, of $50 each, will be applied to the fall semester tuition of 2 students selected by the psychology department.

The following student scholarships, given in the past, will again be awarded: the Glenn L. Martin Scholarship ($200), the Daniel E. Jenkins Memorial Scholarship (one year's tuition), and the Alumni Liberal Arts Scholarship (one year's tuition).

These 3 full-time faculty members are all retiring at the end of the current school year.

Col. Anson D. Marston, Professor of Engineering, said that new ideas and suggestions in planning the new engineering program will be discussed so the program may serve business more effectively.

Prison Visit 'Interesting'

By Rusty Harmsen

What does the inside of a prison look like? "Not like I expected," was the reply of most students who toured the Nebraska State Penitentiary Wednesday.

Most tours see only the outside of the institution, but twenty-eight criminology and sociology students of Dr. Edmund McCurtain saw everything from the maximum security cells to the electric chair.

Students were surprised to see guards without guns or riot clubs roaming through the yards and cell areas. Of course no one was out of sight of the armed guards and their vigilant eye.

And far from standing in the "yard" and planning escapes, most prisoners were busy working or going to school. Yes, school. Many prisoners are given a chance to complete courses for their high school diplomas or even college requirements.

Instead of eating at long tables in silence, prisoners are able to converse while sitting at modernistic round tables.

Students were also shown the prison industries. The prisoners manufacture soap, furniture, clothes and can their own fruits and vegetables that are grown on the prison farms. The products cannot be sold on the open market however.

A look at the electric chair brought varied responses from the group, everything from somber silence to clever witticisms.

OU Class Studies Negative Factors

A comprehensive study of the negative factors in Omaha was to be presented to city officials yesterday by an Omaha University sociology class.

Prof. Philip Vogt's class in community organization has spent much of the past four months researching the rates of infant mortality, illegitimacy, unemployment, juvenile delinquency, criminal arrests and high school drop-outs in Omaha.

The 35 students spent countless hours gathering information from thousands of records, analyzing it and placing it on large maps.

The maps indicate the location and rate of the six negative factors under study.

A final map correlating each of the negative factors was prepared. It showed the heaviest concentration of negative factors to be generally from Thirtieth Street east to the Missouri River and from Dodge north to Ames Avenue.

Over 1,500 enrollment packets have been issued to students this week during pre-registration. About 600 students have actually completed the pre-registration process.

Interprep Committee extends a welcome to all students interested in furthering the school spirit. The meeting will be held May 15 in Room 312 of the Student Center at 3:30 p.m.

Puppy Adopted by B&G Dept.; Learns College Is a 'Dog's Life'

By Mary Jane Cooper

Peggy is a dog. But not just any dog. She's people—like you and me. And why, you ask, is she a people? Because she has found her niche, her spot, her place in life.

Late last February a campus policeman noticed a scrawny, near-frozen puppy slinking around the cars back of the field house. Having been mistreated and deserted, the little ball of fur was terrified of anyone who came near her. She eyed with mistrust Bob Harder's attempts at friendliness.

Student Center-fed

After a few days' time, the puppy became used to the policeman's presence, but she still streaked away when he approached her. Harder fed her on scraps from the Student Center kitchens, hoping to win her confidence while keeping her from starvation. Eventually Peggy permitted Harder to come near, to touch her, and finally to pet and stroke her.

Another campus policeman, Jim Agar, became interested in the foundling puppy, too, and helped buy food for her.

When she became friends with the two men, Peggy was taken to the Building and Grounds quonset. A bed was fixed for her there. But still she was frightened of anyone but "her" policemen. She crept around the building, cringing from the friendly attempts to fondle her. In a few weeks, Officer friends of Peggy show how friendly and cooperative she has become? Well, maybe she doesn't like photographers!

however, she warmed to the B&G people, and became the darling of the department.

"General Supervisor"

Now Peggy runs with the policemen around their routes, and "supervises" the general activity on campus. She follows the night watchman on his rounds. She chases rabbits for kicks.

In the B&G quonset, Peggy rules the roost. She eats lunch with the personnel, visits with everyone, even naps under the desk of director Clarence Lef-ler. And she is loved.

Peggy is still a puppy, still a little timid. She avoids most of the students, but give her time. She'll learn.

See? Peggy is a people.

How Important Is Your Education?

By Mike Dugan

Four years ago next September, Omaha University entered through its hallowed doors, 791 aspiring high school matriculants.

Next month, 216 of these eager collegians or about 27 percent will be graduated from that class.

What happened to the other 75 percent?

Although many of them have either been delayed somewhere along the way and others graduated earlier or elsewhere, it would be safe to say that over half of that entering class four years ago will never hold a degree.

This indicates a short-coming in either the students or in the educational system.

My guess is that both have faults that are keeping many from earning that degree.

An Even Break

The University has developed a systematic educational system that seems to give every student better than an even chance to be graduated.

In most colleges, a student is screened and tested before he is allowed to enter the college of his choice.

At this institution, he must prove his ability to do college work in the first semester, before he is allowed to remain.

Afterward, he is given every advantage to insure him of a complete education.

In the last decade, educators have found that even an even break is not enough to induce students to share in the effort.

Universities, instead of demanding that students conform to the regulations set up to insure them of a decent education, have given in to student demands of an easier time of it.

At this institution, as in most other colleges, academic probation standards are set at the lowest possible point. Any student with proven ability to do college work should be able to keep off the probation list with half an effort.

Dr. George Harris of the Faculty Committee on Academic Standing says that academic probation is only a warning sign to the student that he is falling significantly below the rate of academic progress expected of his academic classification.

Dr. Harris said the Committee is considering a revision of probation policy that would include changing the system of determining grade averages.

This would involve using an accumulative average instead of a combination accumulative average plus the students current semester average.

This would be a definite advantage for those students who started out good in their college careers and became progressively worse.

It is a disadvantage for those who started out slow but improved along the way.

Indeed, this will relieve some of those "over-worked" upperclassmen, but it certainly doesn't present them with much incentive to do quality work.

Perhaps many students are not able to do the required work in many courses and fall by the wayside through no fault of their own.

If so, perhaps these students should have been better screened to determine their abilities before given an opportunity to attempt higher education.

Not Prepared

Many of these students just aren't college material.

This is not fair to them or to the University to allow them to enter and fail at a certain point.

Why are so many students unprepared?

Jenkin Lloyd Jones, Editor of the Tulsa Tribune said this of "progressive" high schools from where many college students come from: "This is the education," Mr. Jones said, "where everyone passes, where the report cards are non-committal lest the failure be faced with the fact of his failure, where all move at a snail pace like a trans-Atlantic convoy so that the slowest need not be left behind, and all proceed toward adulthood in the lockstep of 'togetherness.'"

What Mr. Jones did not mention is that these same high school graduates, have carried with them from high school the attitude that they need not perform to keep up with the group. They are trying to get through college with this attitude while competing with a group that does perform.

It just can't be done... unless it is allowed to.

Mediocrity Not Enough

Mr. Jones went on to say that we have produced "tens of thousands of high school graduates who move their lips as they read and cannot write a coherent paragraph—while our Russian contemporaries, who were supposed to be dedicated to the mass man, have been busy constructing an elite, we have been engaged in the whole-sale production of mediocrity."

With a little more effort we will soon have achieved that mediocrity.

What incentive is this to the student who makes the effort to do good work and is enthusiastic about what he does?

He is often times looked upon as one who "doesn't swing," "odd," or some other adjective that implies non-conformity.

There are too many 'good time Charlies' who pride themselves in a low grade of morals and a general attitude of irresponsibility.

Many have adopted the negative attitude of the silver platter and a cushy course of study.

Many graduating seniors are surprisingly ignorant of world affairs, communism and even our own political and social environment.

Sociologists have proven that youth wants more than this—they want direction, purpose and a sense of doing something worth while.

We have only one life to live, one country to live for and a hellava lot of responsibility to meet before we're through.

Let's make it all worthwhile and check out with a good record.

It's up to you.

'Final' Phiosophy

By Steve Gould

Rejoice, brethren, for that blessing we at this university (and any other university, for that matter) term Finals is upon us.

Let us look, then, at that Final Blessing.

Rejoice, I say, and be thankful, for how else are we to express our grief. We should not cry, we should not pout—even though the Yuletide has passed. Instead, we should let our emotions run rampant through the psychological disease known as Cramming.

Or maybe we should indulge in the little cheat known as a Baby Crib. Or maybe we should play Pony express.

Nonetheless, brethren, those final examinations will soon be upon us. (It must be made clear that the term "final examination" is of Biblical derivation, referring to the Last Judgment Day).

Prayer, I'm afraid, is not the answer to the finals enigma, nor is blood-letting. (It must be made clear that blood-letting is an answer, provided you go to extremes). Imbibing is not the answer, nor is Black Mass, nor health, wealth and longevity.

But, hark! There is an answer. It is ascertained as having a photogenic mind.

The first step in making one's mind photogenic is to clear one's mind. This is most easily accomplished by placing a bazooka at one's temple and pulling the firing mechanism.

Come to think of it, there need be no second step.

Bootstrap Mentor Has Many Jobs

By Fran Campbell

"Father of the Bootstrappers." This is the nickname often ascribed to by Roy W. Nolte, whose official title is supervisor of military programs.

And Nolte has been just that. Friend and counselor, Nolte takes a personal as well as an academic interest in the bootstrappers.

His job entails explaining to prospective bootstrappers from all over the world what they have to do to qualify and helping them to meet these requirements.

Since coming to OU in 1952 as adult counselor, Nolte has watched the bootstrap program grow from one student a year to the approximately 600 which are presently enrolled.

"It all started in 1952," Nolte said, "when a Maj. Ardent Jewett stopped in my office to ask if he could complete his education here. I went with him to the registrar and helped him work out his schedule. After he left more kept coming. OU received a good reputation for the bootstrap program, and gradually it became quite extensive."

Today Nolte receives on the average of six calls a day from officers all over the world seeking information in regard to the military program at OU. "One day," he said, "I had two calls from Honolulu." In addition to this he also receives approximately 200 letters a week with similar requests.

When a bootstrapper arrives in Omaha from whatever part of the world he comes from, he often brings with him many problems that are very often difficult to solve at a moment's notice.

Most of these men are used to moving around and making those adjustments necessary when the occasion calls.

Roy Nolte devotes much of his time assisting these men and women to making the proper adjustment to college life.

"This adjustment," one boot-strapper said, "is one in which we all have difficulty in making since most of us have been away from academic life for a long time."

"Mr. Nolte," he said, "gives us much more than his required services—he is always available."

And this, Nolte says, is what he enjoys most about his work. "I get a great deal of satisfaction out of working with people and helping them solve their problems," he said.

Graduate bootstrappers all over the world are grateful to Roy Nolte and many of them keep in touch regularly with him although they may have graduated from OU years ago.

"Graduates," he said, "often call just to say hello."

Because of Roy Nolte's widespread popularity in the bootstrap program, he is known to many future bootstrappers who have never met him. Prospective bootstrappers travel from all over the continent to confer with him.

"Hardly a day passes without a bootstrapper flying in from somewhere for a conference," he said.

Next August Roy Nolte will end his career of 48 years in the field of public education.

A job well done.

Indian Cindermen to Host Annual CIC Outdoor Track Championships

The annual CIC Outdoor Track Championships will get under way tonight at 5 p.m. on the OU track. The two day event begins tonight with the broad jump.

Defending champtons in six events will return this year to try to repeat with their own records. Omaha's Roger Sayers will be trying to relinquish his hold on his records in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Sayers has been running in the 9.5 area previously this year, in the 100. Other record holders returning this year are: Melvin Mayo, Emporia State in the 440; Charles Anderson of Washburn in the 120 yard high hurdles; Kent Baur, Fort Hays in the pole vault, and Bill Favrow, Emporia, in the shot put.

Teams entered in the meet include Emporia State, Pittsburg State, Fort Hays, Washburn, St. Benedict's and Omaha. The six conference teams have a combined total of 137 men entered in the meet.

Tomorrow's field schedule calls for a start at 11:30 with the pole vault finals. The running events will get underway at 2 p.m. Wednesday, the team traveled to Crete, Nebraska for the Doane College night relays.

Sioux Falls, South Dakota was the scene for Omaha's Sayers clocking of :09.5 in the 100 yard dash Saturday. Omaha also gathered firsts in the broad jump, the 440 and the 880.

Sayers, who has been running consistantly around :09.5 recently set a new record in the Noward Wood relays. The former record time was :09.8, set in 1935, and tied in 1935 and 1951. Sayers set the record in the University division. The top college time for the meet was :10:0.

Omaha University's Roger Sayers displays the track shoes that have helped him to become one of the leading sprinters in the country. Sayers has ran the century in :9.5 three times this season. Sayers will be running for another fast clocking as the Indian cindermen play host to the CIC outdoor championships starting this afternoon.

In the University division 880 and 440 yard relays, Omaha's winning team was made up of Alan Roberts, Jason Decker, Bruce Hunter and Sayers. The teams time in the 440 was :43.0 and the 880 clocking was 1:29.7.

Jim Foster was the other solo winner for OU, Foster leaped 23' 2 1/2" for his first place medal in the broad pump.

Bruce Hunter placed fourth in the 120-yard high hurdles. Roberts placed third in the University 100-yard dash and Omaha's sprint-medley relay team placed fifth in that event.

Jim Foster was the hero in the dual meet against Washburn Thursday May 3 at the OU track. Foster broad jumped farther than any previous Omaha jumper throughout OU's history. Jim's jump was 23' 4 1/2" which betters the record set by Bill Reichert of Washburn in 1955.

Foster's jump and his teammates points combined for 56 points while Washburn compiled 79.

Sayers broke one record and tied another in the afternoon event. Sayers topped the record of :09.9 set by Joe Nalty of Omaha in 1950 with a run of :09.7. He tied the record in the 220 by OU's Bill Barnes in 1956 with a time of :21.9.

Herb Rhodes also became a new record holder in the 880 with a time of 2:00.5. Herb's time bettered the mark set by Bernie Lainson of Omaha in 1954.

Omaha also collected a first in the mile with Tom Ash breaking the tape at 4:45. Bruce Hunter took honors in the 220 low hurdles at :25.5.

Roberts, Decker, Hunter and Sayers teamed together to win the 440 yard relay with a speed of :42.8.

Dave Hagglund matched for a first in the high jump with a bar resting at 6' 2".

Indian Nine Tests Ravens Tomorrow

St. Benedict's moves into town as Omaha University's baseball club goes after the top spot in the Central Intercollegiate Conference tomorrow.

Benedict's holds two wins over Washburn in the CIC who was considered as a likely contender to dethrone the Indians as the CIC champ. OU bounced the Ravens in two games last year.

Currently sporting a 1-1 loop record, the Indians will attempt to grab the top spot with a sweep of the double-header. Starting time for the first contest is 2 p.m.

Emporia State handed the Indians their second loss of the season 8-5 in a contest that saw the Kansans hit three home runs off Indian hurlers Frank Pecha and Steve Lipman. Lipman who relieved Pecha drew the loss, his first of the year.

The Indians bounced back to take the nightcap 9-3 behind lefty Barry Miller. The win gave Miller his seventh straight for the 1962 campaign.

Leftfielder Wayne Backes provided most of the punch in that second encounter hitting a home run, triple and a single.

Rokie Steve Lipman bounced back after losing his first game of the year at Emporia to one-hit Nebraska Wesleyan Tuesday. The 5-0 shut-out performance gave Lipman his fourth win in five decisions.

Lipman has a no-hitter through the first six innings of the second but gave up a lead-off single in the seventh to spoil the dream game.

The New Jersey freshman also aided his own cause with a two-run homer in the second inning.

Mike Coughlin, in search of his first win of the season, ran into trouble in the first game losing 5-4. The big right-hander was plagued by wildness as he issued seven passes. An error by Ray Fehrman also cost the Indians as Wesleyan pushed across the winning runs in the fourth inning.

The Indians will remain at home for two seven-inning Kansas-Missouri-Nebraska League games hosting Rockhurst Tuesday.

Batterymen Work

Most of the Indians took the day off Wednesday, holding only short work-outs for the batterymen.

At a squad meeting the same day the squad members elected honorary team captains for the current season, selecting seniors Jack Vaccaro and Stan Macaitis to head the club the rest of the season.

Giese Shines in CIC Golf Championships

Omaha's Bill Giese took medalist honors in the Central Intercollegiate Conference Golf Championships Tuesday, adding a 77 to his Monday rounds of 77-76 for a 230 total.

An Indian team of Giese, Ernest Meeker (249), John Gaffney (255) and Bill Bantner (256) finished second in final points and in four-man competition. Giese and Meeker also were second in two-man golf with a 479 score.

OU will close out the '62 campaign against Nebraska on the Lincoln campus Monday, May 14.

Gala Affair Set For Athletes

For the first time in the history of the University, an All-Sports Gala Dinner-Dance will be held.

The event will be held tomorrow night in the Student Center with the dinner starting at 6:00 p.m. and the dance at 9:00 p.m. and lasting until midnight.

The purpose will be to honor all participants in intercollegiate athletics along with the student managers, band, cheerleaders, Indians and the AFOTC color guard.

Farmer, Konecky Lead OU Netters

Mike Farmer and Al Konecky collected all of Omaha's points by winning their first round singles matches during the Central Intercollegiate Conference Tournament at Atchison, Kansas, last Friday and Saturday.

Farmer defeated John Hutchinson of St. Benedict's, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1 and Konecky beat Byron Welch of Fort Hays 6-3, 6-3 to give OU netmen two points and hold a next to last position at the end of singles competition on Friday. After winning their first match both were knocked out in their second round.

Indian doubles teams drew first round byes and then lost in the second round on Saturday.

OU faced Drake on Wednesday and will meet Creighton on the bluejay courts this afternoon. Nebraska will be their last opponent when they travel to Lincoln on Tuesday, May 15.

All American Show Features Orchestra

The University Orchestra and Male Chorus will put on a concert May 15 at 8 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom.

The program will be made up of all American pieces.

Starting off with the "National Anthem" the orchestra and chorus follow through the evening with selections such as "Afro-American Symphony," "Three Sea Chanteys," and "Paul Bunyan Suite."

James B. Peteron directed the orchestra, and Melvin D. Olson, the male chorus.

A meeting of the University Engineering Advisory Committee will be held Monday evening in dining room A of the Student Center.

Hagewood, Gomez Capture Bowling Doubles Tourney

Registration Is Fun?

I am Wilma. I am Waldo's sister. You remember Waldo. He got a long note from our leader for playing pickle in the Ouampi Room. He left in a hurry. Waldo is afraid of him.

This is registration week. I can tell because the lines are long in the Administration Building. At first I thought they were giving away things. But they weren't.

I've been trying to register this week. I've been trying very hard.

First I stood in one line—right through lunch. Then I changed lines. I didn't eat dinner either. I finally got to see what was at the beginning of one of the lines. I wasn't impressed—besides it was the wrong line.

My counselor is a busy man. He has lots of things to do when I want him to sign cards and things. Like going to eat or going to wash his hands (he does that a lot—he must play in the dirt).

I had my friend sign cards. Nobody will ever know. He can scribble "PVP" just like my counselor.

This year we signed up in a new way. They used cardboard cards with lots of holes in them.

They were really easy to follow. All you had to do was put your street number on the third line from the top and your I.D. number on the seventeenth line from the middle and your phone number on the middle line between the street number and the I.D. number and your social security number goes next to the street number with a line between that and the number on your birth certificate.

Of course we had to mark our driver's license number in the upper left-hand corner next to the number of our major. I didn't have any trouble.

Well, I did have trouble putting the little green pieces back in the holes in my green card. But the registrar will love me because I finally did that too.
